The Gettysburg Railroad.

Change of Hours for Running of Trains.

THE MORNING TRAIN, will leave Gettysburg at 7.30 A. M., with passengers for Baltimore, York, Columbia, Harrisburg, Philadelphia and the North and West, returning to Gettysburg at 1.30 P. M., with passengers from Baltimore.

THE AFTERNOON TRAIN, will leave Gettysburg at 2.30 P. M., for Hanover, returning about 6.30 P. M., with passengers from York, Columbia, Harrisburg, Philadelphia and the north and west.

The above arrangement has, of necessity, to be adopted at present, but it is expected that early in March such a Spring arrangement of running of trains will be made on the Northern Central Railroad as to enable passengers over the Gettysburg Railroad to go through to Baltimore without delay such as the present arrangement will occasion.

FLOUR & COMMISSION HOUSE,
NO. 101, N. HOWARD STREET,
BALTIMORE.
(ESTABLISHED A. D. 1785.)

WE take this means of reminding our friends in Adams and the neighboring Counties, that we still carry on business at our old Warehouse, where we are prepared to purchase or receive on consignment COUNTRY PRODUCE, especially FLOUR and GRAIN. Our experience and standing, together with our favorable location (our Warehouse being on the line of the Railroad) warrant us in hoping that we shall be able, not only to retain our old customers, but also to extend our business in this section of country.

NOTHING IS LOST.

Nothing is lost: the drop of dew
  Which trembles on the leaf or flower,
Is but exhaled to fall anew
  In Summer's thunder shower;
Perchance to shine within the bow
  That fronts the sun at fall of day;
Perchance to sparkle in the flow
  Of fountains far away.

Nothing is lost: the tiniest seed,
  By wild birds borne, or breezes blown,
Finds something suited to its need,
  Wherein 'tis sown and grown.
The language of some household song,
  The perfume of some cherished flower,
Though gone from outward sense, belong
  To memory's after hour.

So with our words; or harsh or kind,
  Uttered, they are not all forgot;
They leave their influence on the mind,
  Pass on, but perish not!
So with our deeds; for good or ill
  They have their power, scarce understood;
Then let us use our better will
  To make them rife with good!

IN THE NIGHT.

All day I list for voices
  That do not come to me,
And vainly think I hear them
  Along the evening sea;
They come not in the day time,
  But every night it seems
That I can hear them speaking low
  Around me, in my dreams.

All day I think of faces,
  And through the open door
I look to see them enter,
  As in the days of yore:
They come not in the daytime,
  But every night it seems
As if I saw them smiling down
  Upon me, in my dreams.

All day my soul remembers,
  While quick before my eyes
The forms that I have loved so
  In other days arise:
'Tis sorrow in the daytime,
  But every night it seems
As if their souls were with me still
  And love me, in my dreams.

Miscellaneous.

Scenes of Childhood.

Of all periods in life, there are none so pure—none so innocent as childhood. We look at the child in all its loveliness, and admire that which we can never again possess. A child's expectations may be disappointed—dark clouds may obscure its pathway, but how soon all its troubles are forgotten; the dark cloud passed away, and joy again depicts itself on the fair brow of childhood. O! could it be thus with us in after life, when care and disappointment oppress the mind, now enfeebled by age, life would indeed be a pleasant journey, and death scarcely desirable. When we reflect on the scenes of our childhood, its pleasures, its happy associations, the honest rosy faces of early friends, we almost involuntarily exclaim, "I would I were a child again."—Yes, our young hearts were then too full of mirth and pleasure to dream of sorrow and care. But now, when they come, we console ourselves with the thought "if we are sanguine and cheerful," these will be our friends Yes, childhood has its pleasures and enjoyments, its sports and its peals of merry laughter; but like all other things of a terrestrial character, they are transitory, and we are left "to look beyond this vale of tears" for that which is ever more glorious.

"I remember. I remember.
  How my childhood fleeted by—
The mirth of its December,
  And the warmth of its July."

A Soft Answer.—A Christian man, who was hated by one of his neighbors for his religion, was once attacked by him with abusive words, at his own door. He bore for a time the violence of the other's language, who called him all the ill names he could think of. When, at length, he ceased, being exhausted with passion, the other meekly, but kindly and sincerely, replied to him, 'Will you come into my house, and take some refreshments?' This was too much. The enemy was softened; he was overcome with this Christian conduct, and burst into tears. This was indeed a triumph.

Fidelity.—Never forsake a friend. When enemies gather around—when sickness falls on the heart—when the world is dark and cheerless—then is the time to try true friendship. They who turn from the scene of distress, betray their hypocrisy, and prove that interest only moves them. If you have a friend who loves you and studies your interest and happiness—be sure to sustain him in adversity. Let him feel that his former kindness is appreciated, and that his love was not thrown away. Real fidelity may be rare, but it exists in the heart. Who has not seen and felt its power? They only deny its worth and power, who never have loved a friend, or labored to make a friend happy.

* * *

Good for Evil.—Euclid, a disciple of Socrates, having offended his brother, the latter cried out in a rage, 'Let me die, if I am not revenged on you some time or other.' Euclid replied, 'And let me die, if I do not soften you by my kindness, and make you love me as well as ever.'

The Monkey and the Drunkard.

Mr. Pollard states that in his drinking days, he was the companion of a man in Arundel county, Md., who had a monkey which he valued at a thousand dollars.—"We always took him out on our chestnut parties. He shook off all our chestnuts for us, and when he could not shake them off, he would go to the very end of the limb, and knock them off with his fist.

"One day we stopped at a tavern and drank freely. About half a glass of whisky was left, and Jack took the glass and drank it up Soon he was merry, skipped, hopped, and danced, and set us all in a roar of laughter. Jack was drunk.

"We all agreed, six of us, that we would come to the tavern next day, and get Jack drunk again, and have sport all day. I called at my friend's house next morning, and we went out for Jack. Instead of being as usual on his box, he was not to be seen. We looked inside, and he was crouched up in a heap. "Come out here," said his master. Jack came out on three legs: his fore paw was upon his head.—Jack had the headache; I knew what was the matter with him. He felt just as I felt many a morning. Jack was sick and couldn't go. So we waited three days.—We then went, and while drinking, a glass was provided for Jack. But where was he? Skulking behind the chairs. "Come here Jack, and drink," said his master, holding out the glass to him. Jack retreated, and as the door was open, slipped out, and in a moment was on the top of the house. His master went to call him down, but he would not come. He got a cow skin and shook it at him. Jack sat on the ridge pole and refused to obey. His master got a gun and pointed it at him. A monkey is much afraid of a gun. Jack slipped over the back side of the house.—His master then got two guns, one at each side of the house, when the monkey, seeing his predicament, at once whipped up the chimney, and got down into one of the flues, holding on by his fore paws The master was beaten. The man kept that monkey twelve years, but could never persuade him to taste another drop of whisky. The beast had more sense than a man who has an immortal soul, and thinks himself the first and best creature on earth."

A Lover Still.

'No longer a lover,' exclaimed an aged patriarch; 'ah, you mistake me if you think age has blotted out my heart. Though silver hairs fall over a brow all wrinkled, and cheek all furrowed, I am a lover still. I love the beauty of a maiden's blush, the soft tint of flowers, the singing of the birds, and above all, the silvery laugh of a child. I love the starlike meadows, with almost the same enthusiasm as when, with my ringlets flying loose in the wind, and my cap in my hand, years ago, I chased the painted butterfly. I love yon aged dame. Look at her. Her face is care-worn, but it has ever had a smile for me. Often have I shared the bitter cup of sorrow with her—and so shared, it seemed almost sweet. Years of sickness have stolen the freshness of her life, but like the faded rose, the perfume of her love is richer than when in the full bloom of youth and maturity.

'Together we have placed buds in the pale folded hands of the dead—together we wept over little graves. Through storm and sunshine we have clung together; and now she sits with her knitting, her cap quaintly frilled; the old handkerchief crossed white and prim above the heart that has beat so long and truly for me, the dim blue eye that shrinkingly fronts the glad day; the sunlight throwing her farewell, kisses her brow, and leaves upon its faintest tracery of wrinkles angelic radiance. I see, though no one else can, the bright glad young face that won me first, shine through those withered features, and the growing love of forty years thrills my heart till the tears come.

'Say not again I can 'no longer be a lover.' Though this form be bowed, God has planted eternal love within. Let the ear be deaf, the eye blind, the hand palsied, the limbs withered, the brain clouded, yet the heart, the true heart, may hold such wealth of love, that all the power of death and the victorious grave shall not be able to put out the quenchless flame.'

"Not Guilty."

We all recollect the verboseness of the old style of pleadings, before the courts were purged of their perplexity by the "Code" An indictment for a simple misdemeanor was so long and tiresome that a victim, against whom one was "found," would almost plead 'guilty,' to get rid of the bore of its reading Under this system, an indictment was found against Joel Nash, a simple-minded backwoodsman, of C——— county, for 'assaulting' and 'battering' one 'Joe Davis.' Nash had knocked Davis down for some trivial insult, and Davis had informed the Attorney-General of the affair, and the Grand Jury had found a 'true bill' against Nash. The case came up and Joel was called. The Attorney General, who reads an indictment with peculiar gusto, upon Joel's appearance at the bar, drew his indictment, and began to read of the 'prisoner's not having the fear of God before his eyes, but being moved and instigated by the Devil, did, in the county aforesaid, against the peace and dignity of the State, assault, with divers sticks, bludgeons, blocks of wood, logs, bars of iron, pistols, bowie-knives, daggers, dirks, Arkansaw tooth-picks, brick-bats and stones, in and upon the head, neck, breast, arms, belly, abdomen, legs, knees, and feet, of the said Davis, making divers wounds, contusions, bruises, bumps, cuts, stabs, holes and burns, &c. &c' Nash, uneasy from the first, upon the reading of the indictment began to grow pale and nervous. He twisted and squirmed, and 'twas all his counsel could do to prevent his interrupting the Attorney General.

'Oh,' thought Joel, 'did that Joe Davis swar to all them lies? if he did, I'm a gone coon.'

After the Attorney-General had finished the reading, he turned to Joel, and said:

'Joel Nash, what say you to the charge in this indictment? are you guilty or not guilty?'

Joel sprang to his feet, and said:

'Not guilty to that piece uv paper, 'squire; but I jos slapped Joe Davis over, fur callin' uv me a liar.'

Joel's appearance of anguish at being accused of bruising and beating up Joel Davis in such a manner, and his answer to the charge, was irresistible, and Court, Bar and all, laughed immoderately. Joel was fined $1 and costs upon his plea of 'guilty,' and the members of the Bar raised the amount for him.

Musk in a Backwoods Tavern.

The Landlord Smells Something.

A short time since a gentleman and lady were traveling in Michigan, and having missed the stage, were compelled to take a private conveyance from the town of Senderi to Thomastown. The lady had with her a beautiful little lap dog, which she carried on her lap on an embroidered mat. During the ride the husband discovered he had no handkerchief, when the lady lent him her's, which was fashionably scented with musk. About half way between the two towns the carriage broke down, in the midst of hard rain, and they were obliged to take refuge in the half way house—a "one horse" log tavern, consisting of two rooms—a bar-room and lodging room. The lady laid her lap dog on its mat before the fire, and herself and husband took seats.—In a short time the gentleman had an occasion to use his handkerchief, and took it out, leaving it lying on his knee when he got through with it. In a few moments the landlord opened the door, put his head in, looked around, went out, came in, gazed at the dog—his nostrils all the while upturned in intense disgust. He finally appeared satisfied, went to the outside door, opened it, came back with a bound, seized the lap dog by the tail, and hurled him howling through the open door full ten rods into the forest. The wife fainted; the husband rose to his feet, terribly enraged, and wanted to know what he did that for. "That's my dog," continued he, furiously. "Don't care a cuss whose dog it is," said the man gruffly and impetuously; "I ain't going to have no such blasted smelling varment around my tavern."—The husband and wife evacuated the house instantly, and proceeded on their way in the rain.

Love Making.

The site of the following passionate scene was the sea-shore, on which they were walking, in autumn.

Gentleman—"Well, miss, the long and short of it is this: here I am—you can take me or leave me."

Lady—(scratching a gutter in the sand with her parasol, so as to allow a little salt water to run out of one hole into another)—"Of course, I know that's all nonsense.'

Gentleman—"Nonsense! By Jove, it isn't nonsense at all! Come, Jane, here I am; come, at any rate you can say something."

Lady—"Yes, I suppose I can say something."

Gentleman—"Well, which is it to be; take me or leave me?"

Lady—(very slowly, and with a voice perhaps hardly articulate, carrying on at the same time her engineering works on a wider scale)—"Well, I don't exactly want to leave you."

☞It won't do to laugh at Connecticut any longer for wooden nutmegs. New Hampshire has beat her, for roguery, the Legislature being obliged to repeal the law offering a bounty for the destruction of crows, in consequence of the practice which has prevailed of procuring crow's eggs and hatching them under hens, and bringing forward the brood for the bounty.

The "Try Company."

A gentleman who was riding in the cars noticed a bright little fellow, between five and six years of age, sitting with his father and mother, and engaged in the attempt to unloose the knot in the string that bound a small parcel. The knot had become well compacted, and the child's tiny fingers seemed to make no impression thereon—The patient earnestness of the little fellow was contrasted with the apparent indifference of his parents, who looked on, but made no attempt to assist him. At last the gentleman, whose sympathies with children were warm, could bear the sight no longer; so, partly to help the child, and partly to rebuke the parents, he took out his knife, and handing it to the boy, said:

"Here, my little fellow, try the virtue of a sharp blade. You can't untie the knot."

Something to his surprise, the knife was not taken; but, instead, the child answered, with a smile:

"Please, sir, Father don't allow me to say I can't; I belong to the 'Try Company.'"

"Indeed!" said the gentleman, as he drew back his hand. "I never heard of that company before."

"Oh, I've always belonged to it—Haven't I, father?"

And the child turned with an expression of loving confidence in his face towards his father.

"He's a worthy member of that excellent association, sir," remarked the father, now speaking to the gentleman, and smiling in a pleasant way.

"Ah, I understand you!" Light was breaking in upon his mind. "This is a part of your discipline You never permit your little boy to say I can't"

"But, instead, I'll try, sir."

"Excellent," said the gentleman. "Excellent! Here is the way that men are made. It is the everlasting I can't that is dwarfing the energies of thousands upon thousands all over the land. A feeble effort is made to overcome some difficulty, and then the arms fall wearily, and the task is abandoned."

"And who is the most to blame for this?" was inquired.

"Parents," was the unhesitating reply.

"Parents who fail to cultivate patience and perseverance in their children. Parents who carry them when they should let them walk, even though their feet may be weary. I see it all as clear as light, and see my own fault at the same time. I cut the knot of difficulties for my children every day, instead of requiring them to loosen it themselves. But, sir, they shall join the 'Try Company' after this. I'll have no more knot cutting in my house." How is it with you, reader, child or man? Are you a member of the 'Try Company?' If not, and you have any ambition to be something more than a drone in the hive, join it at once, and from this time forth never let the words I can't find a place on your lips.—Arthur's Home Mag.

Seeds.

The Boston Herald is certain that in Boston alone the seed trade will reach as high a figure as three millions. This includes grass and grain seed, in which an immense business is transacted. Those who are accustomed to look upon the vegetable and flower seed business as a sort of five cent affair, will be surprised to learn that fifty thousand dollars' worth of minute flower seeds are sold in Boston in a year; that ten tons of turnip seed, ten tons of beet seed, five thousand pounds of tomato seed, and five thousand pounds each of squash and cucumber seeds are sold. In the small article of mignonette, five hundred pounds of seeds are required to supply the annual demand. In other varieties of seed, of which five or ten cents' worth are enough for each individual, thousands and tens of thousands of dollars make up the aggregate of sales.

Evaporation.

From the whole surface of the ocean, says Dr. Dick, there arises, every twelve hours, no less than thirty millions cubit feet of water, which is more than sufficient to supply all the rivers on the earth. This immense body of water is formed into clouds, and carried over every part of the continents; and again it is condensed into rain, snow, or dews, which fertilize the earth. Should this process pause, we might wash our clothes, but centuries would not dry them, for evaporation alone produces this effect; vegetation would wither; rivers would swell the ocean; the operations of nature would cease. So close is the connection between this process and vegetable and animal life. 'Praise the Lord, for He causeth the vapors to ascend from the ends of the earth.'—Scientific American.

☞No single women are allowed in Japan. Every man is allowed one legal wife, and as many second wives as his means will allow him to support. The second wives are selected by law from the poorer classes of society, whose relatives are unable to support them, and the children are all adopted by the legal wife, who is the only acknowledged mother. The old rule is therefore reversed in Japan, where instead of a boy not knowing his own father, hundreds do not know their own mother.

Idle Boys.

He who is idle and vicious in school, is still more so when he leaves it. He who fires squibs will in time fire pistols. He who plays cards for sport, will, if he turns not, play ere long for money. He who robs hen-roosts and orchards, will probably some day rob safes and pocket-books. He may not do it in the way to expose himself to the penitentiary; he may have his wits so sharpened as to rob legally, by setting up a wild cat bank, or betraying the confidence of his employer; or obtaining possession of property without the means of paying for it; or by getting his hand upon the public coffers, that he may fill his own, under the soft appellation of "breach of trust."

I would that you could see with my eyes for a little; you would think with me, that he who when a boy could not be trusted, cannot now when he is a man. It would not be proper for me to mention names, or I could illustrate this by numerous painful examples. But they are not necessary.—Effects will follow causes: as a man sows, so shall he reap: boyhood is the seed-time of which manhood is the harvest.

As, therefore, you love yourselves, form the habit while young of employing all your time usefully. Never be unemployed. The land is full of idlers striving to live without labor. It is not to be supposed that you are never to take recreation; this is useful, it is necessary; but if it come after hard study or productive labor, it will probably be healthful and moderate. An honorable mind, in the desire of mere relaxation, will not go forth in forms of mischievous exertion. It is not to be supposed that a boy is to be a man, much less an old man; but in the midst of his mirth and hilarity he may be innocent and amiable.

Bathing in the Dead Sea.—A pleasant correspondent of the Boston Post, writing from Jerusalem, thus humorously describes his Dead Sea bath:

The Dead Sea has nothing of the desolation which it has been the pleasure of travelers to describe, and it seemed to smile at the secret dread with which it inspires the pilgrim. I of course took a bath there; and for a swimmer who has a fancy to keep his legs as well as his head out of water, I can imagine it must be quite pleasant. My French friend, who is not a little inclined to corpulency, complained that he could not get down in the water, and floated about, now one side up, now another, for all the world like an inflated bladder.—On emerging from the water it was rapidly evaporated by the sun; and the salt crystalizing on our bodies, gave us the appearance of animated sticks of rock candy, or a family resemblance to Lot's wife. With a sensation upon our skin, as if we had been pickled for family use, and with a taste in our mouth compounded of Glauber salts and assafœtida, we concluded that one bath in the Dead Sea was enough for a life time.

The Washington Kissing Couple.

Mr. Colfax writes to the St. Jos. (Ind,) Register, that the story of the loving couple who sat in the gallery of the House at Washington exchanging matrimonial kisses in full view of the whole body, is actually true. He says 'the scene lasted, in full view of the House, for over half an hour. The happy couple occupied a front seat in the ladies' gallery, over the left side of the House, (the democratic side,) and seemed in blissful unconsciousness of all spectators till the doorkeeper sent a note by one of his deputies which ended a scene that had attracted the attention of hundreds.—But it is but justice to say that they were not from Virginia. It turned out, upon inquiry, that they were from Long Island, New York—that the parties were an old bachelor and a widow who had recently been married and were making a bridal tour to Washington—and that they were constituents of the Hon. Mr. Searing, who was overwhelmed with congratulations over the exuberant conjugal affection that evidently prevails in his district.'

Condition of Mormondom.

After all the expense incurred to send a military expedition to subdue the rebellious Mormons, we have the satisfaction of knowing that the condition of things in Utah is just about as good as it was before. Like all the rest of the enterprises of the Administration, it has turned out a miserable abortion, only serving to fill the pockets of Mr. Buchanan's extremely honest friends.

We cut the following from the New Orleans Bulletin:

The Dissolution of Civil Government in Utah.—The United States Courts in Utah have been closed and the judges have retired, or soon will, as utterly unable to enforce the laws or to do any good by prolonging their stay in the Territory.

Kirk Anderson, editor of the Valley Tan, under date of Salt Lake City, Jan. 14th, states that neither murder nor any other crime can be punished in the Territory.—Judges Sinclair and Cradlebaugh, he says, have endeavored to perform their duties nobly, but have found themselves wholly powerless under the reign of a remorseless despot, whose political power is above the laws, and who can and does nullify them at his pleasure. Mr. Anderson declares that the Judges, in adjourning their Courts, have the approval of every well informed man in the territory. He does not, of course, include in this category the degraded creatures of the traitor who defies the United States, nullifies the laws, and in effect drives the civil officers of the Government from their positions, for it is only by and through the perjury and willingness of these creatures to do any deed that the said traitor carries out his purposes.

But are there not United States soldiers and officers in Utah? Certainly, but they might as well be anywhere else for all the good they do, and that through no fault of their own either. They are placed there as a mere military police, and cannot stir hand or foot except as they receive orders from headquarters. Gen. Johnston and his men, Mr. Anderson avers, are ready, anxious even, to do any duty that may be imposed upon them for the maintenance and enforcement of the laws; but they are tied and can do nothing. The same thing is true of Gov. Cumming. He can only execute the Territorial laws as passed by the Legislature. This body is composed entirely of Mormons, with a single exception, and every thing that is passed is cut and dried at the palace of the Great Mogul himself. The Legislature might as well be abolished, Gov. Cumming be recalled, and the absolute power over life, death and property, be vested in the head of the banditti in name, as it is now in fact. Mr. Anderson states that the judges will undoubtedly lay the whole matter of the rebellion in Utah before the Government when they return in the Spring.

The Iron Interests of Tennessee—We learn that the stock of pig iron for sale on the Cumberland and Tennessee rivers does not exceed three thousand tons, chiefly held by four parties, who are holding for better prices; that four furnaces that were in blast last year will not run this; and that the make this year above the amount required for home consumption will not exceed nine thousand tons. There are now twenty five furnaces standing idle, many of them good property and well situated, making a capital of near one million of dollars entirely unproductive. The losses incurred in this branch of business in the past five years will amount to seven hundred thousand dollars—all paid to our citizens for labor and supplies—and many enterprising men have been bankrupted. And now Congress spurns the appeals made by this much depressed branch of trade for a little protection; and that, too, when their own Treasury is as bankrupt as the poorest furnace Company in the State.—Clarksville Chronicle.

Going to Meet a Lover and Finding Him a Corpse.—A young lady, a Miss T., from Lockport, N. Y, passed through Milwaukee one day last week, on her way to St. Paul, to meet her betrothed and fulfill her engagement to be married. Between Hastings and St. Paul, the La Crosse Republican says, she met the downward stage, which had the corpse of her intended husband. This she did not learn until she arrived at St. Paul, where she hired a livery and started back to overtake the stage. She overhauled the stage at Wabashaw, and took charge of the remains of her lover.—She passed through that city, last Thursday night, on her way home. She was a brave girl, and bore her crushing sorrow by having a faithful hope in the future.—The Republican says the livery man of St. Paul only charged her $50 for taking her to Wabashaw.

As the sheriff approached to readjust the rope, the miserable man shrieked and wildly begged for mercy—for life on any terms, and only ceased his cries and implorations when his breath was stopped by the tightening of the fatal noose.

The Bloody Affray at Hawesville, Ky

The Lynching of the Lowe.—The Louisville Journal has the following particulars of the terrible tragedy at Hawesville, Ky, already briefly mentioned by telegraph

Some months ago a difficulty occurred at a political meeting near Cloverport between Mr Cicero Maxwell of Hartford, Ky, prosecuting attorney of this district, and Mr Thomas S Lowe, formerly of this city and for the last three or four years a merchant of Hawesville, in this State After the occurrence of the difficulty, Mr Lowe sent a note to Mr Maxwell by the hands of a friend, but Mr M declined receiving it Subsequently, Mr Lowe declared publicly that he would horsewhip Mr Maxwell at sight. An attempt was made by a mutual friend, of high character, to bring about an adjustment of the quarrel, but the effort failed and Mr Lowe's threat of personal violence was renewed in writing Mr Maxwell's duties as prosecuting attorney required him to attend the court which met on Monday last at Hawesville, the residence of Mr. Lowe, and of course it was expected that the two gentlemen would then meet Much anxiety was felt by their friends, and another effort was made for the adjustment of the difficulty but although we have reason to know that both Mr Lowe and Mr Maxwell were desirous that there should be an adjustment, none was effected

Naturally a great many persons assembled at Hawesville on Monday in anticipation of an affray, and some probably with a thought of taking part in it Certainly a vast number in the town were armed—Matters came to a crisis on Tuesday

According to the statement made to us Mr Maxwell on Tuesday was making a speech at the court house in Hawesville—Mr Lowe approached in the crowd and called him aloud as a poltroon and made another remark much more hard to bear Mr Maxwell fired at him Lowe returned the fire, and then in rapid succession more than a hundred shots with pistols and guns were fired, nearly or quite all of them at Lowe Maxwell, who was unhurt desisted after his first fire John Aldridge, a friend of Lowe, was instantly killed, being shot through the head and arm, but we are not informed whether he fired or not Mr Miller, a friend of Maxwell, was shot through the thigh Lowe was shot in the thigh and had the thumb of his right hand shot off, and his clothes including his shirt were entirely riddled Lowe retreated to the house of Mrs Smart, and was afterwards taken to the jail, and a strong guard placed around it to prevent him from being lynched by the populace.

The town was feverish with excitement, and on Wednesday night the mob increased in numbers and the thirst for blood During the night it was decided to force the jail and lynch Lowe, or if they could not approach him kill him outright

On Thursday morning, in accordance with the plans, the mob attacked the jail and fearing to lay hands upon their victim, fired upon him He received some sixteen or eighteen balls in vital parts, and died instantly Glutted with vengeance, the mob then retired

Lowe leaves a family who reside at Hawesville His father lives in this city He was a cool determined, and most dangerous man

Effects of Jealousy

Shocking Suicide of a Woman—A terrible case of suicide is recorded in the Cincinnati papers It took place on Friday evening, and the Gazette of Saturday gives the following particulars

For a considerable time past a Hungarian named Emanuel Gerrard who keeps a cigar store at No 620 Vine street had suspected his wife of an improper intimacy with a German physician, and had accused her, from time to time of making and keeping assignations with him The familiar intercourse of the two was made the subject of neighborhood gossip, and had been industriously reported to the husband. The doctor had been in the habit of visiting the store two or three times every day, and the husband had warned him that he must cease his attentions and he had not made his appearance in the store since last Tuesday

Some time last week a letter written by the wife to the doctor making an appointment to meet him at the post office on Sunday last, fell into the hands of her husband, and by his request an apprentice in his employ, named Jacob Gobel witnessed the meeting, and followed the parties about the street, until the return of the wife to her residence They did not stop at any place of resort, but walked and talked for an hour or two

Yesterday evening the husband and the apprentice were sitting at a table in the cigar store, engaged in manufacturing the wife occupying a chair between them, when Gerrard accused his wife of adultery An angry dispute followed, in which both became very much excited, and used harsh language, which continued for some time Mrs Gerrard hastily arose from her seat, and passing behind the counter, took down a loaded pistol hanging upon a nail, and walking back near her husband, placed the muzzle in her right temple and literally blew the top of her head off Her brains were scattered in every direction—over her husband, the show case of cigars and table, and the shelves and boxes in the store Of course instant death followed

It appears that Mrs Gerrard and her husband, before coming to this country occupied a very good social position and his wife was descended from a noble Hungarian family They were both very quiet orderly persons Whether the act of self destruction was caused by chagrin at the discovery by her husband of disreputable conduct, or by indignation at the accusations can never of course be known Mr Gerrard is perhaps 35 years of age and his wife was about 28 She was much admired for her mental culture, elegance of manners and brilliancy of conversation and those combined with a lovely person rendered her the attractive centre of a large circle of devoted friends

☞The oldest couple in Vermont is said to be living in Hardwick the gentleman being 97 and his wife 90, the two having lived together in wedlock for seventy nine years The old lady says she can now do more house work in a day than half the girls in town, and her works prove it.

THE ADAMS SENTINEL.

GETTYSBURG:

MONDAY, MARCH 14, 1859.

☞An error occurred in the published statement last week, of the Bank of Gettysburg, escaping the eye of the proof reader It is correct to day

☞On Monday night last we had a thunder and lightning display, which would have done honor to mid summer Coming so early in the Spring, it rather took our citizens by surprise

☞We understand that the citizens of Hanover intend presenting Mr JAMES ROWZER, of this place, with an elegant suit of clothes, for the services rendered by him on the occasion of the burning of Mr Slagle's barn in that borough

☞At a special meeting of the Mercersburg Classis of the German Reformed Church held on the 2d inst JEREMIAH M MICKLEY, of this county, was licensed to preach the gospel

☞On Friday next the 18th, the Borough and Township elections come off The "People's Party" would do well to look to this matter in time

☞Two young men of our place—Alonzo Ruthrauff and Lewis McClellan—sailed from New York a few days ago for California They have our wishes for a pleasant voyage and full realization of their hopes Mr Ruthrauff's brother has for some years resided in California

☞Two literary exhibitions are to come off in Petersburg (Y S) on Tuesday and Wednesday evenings of this week, which promise to be quite interesting, from the programme

Engine Named.

The Gettysburg Railroad Company has ordered a first class Locomotive from the celebrated establishment of Messrs BALDWIN & Co, in Philadelphia The price is to be $8,000 payable in instalments of 2 months The Engine is to weigh from forty eight to forty nine thousand pounds—is to have four drivers, four and a half feet high—the entire machine to be finished in their best style and to be accepted only after thorough trial The name selected for it is GETTYSBURG We may look for it here in about ten weeks from this time

The other Locomotive will most probably be built at the Trenton Works—Compiler

Break Down

On Wednesday afternoon as the Railroad train was coming into town, a "truck," under one of the Burden Cars, by some means got off the track some 50 yards beyond Rock Creek Bridge Not being noticed by the Engineer, the train passed on rapidly over the Bridge, and some 50 yards on this side, when the truck was crushed down, stopping the train Upon returning to the Bridge it was found that some half dozen of the heavy oak cross ties had been more or less broken and splintered by the thumping of the truck wheels, but the Locomotive and train subsequently passed over the Bridge safely The damage is not material The Brakesman on the Burden Car, noticing that his car was off the track and that the train would inevitably have to cross the Bridge jumped from the car and rolled down an embankment of some 15 or 20 feet, but escaped without serious injury

ANOTHER ROBBERY.—On the night of the 7th inst, (Monday) the store of Messrs PAXTON & McCREARY in Fairfield this county was forcibly entered by burglars and robbed of about $50 in money, which was found in the drawer, and a considerable amount of valuable jewelry, consisting, we understand of five or six valuable watches, Breast pins, rings &c, and a number of other articles Suspicion, we understand, rests upon SAYLOR, the same person who robbed the store of Messrs RINEHART & SULLIVAN, of the same place, some time ago, and who was placed in our jail on that charge, but subsequently made his escape He was known to be lurking in the neighborhood a few days previous to the night of the robbery A portion of the goods was afterwards found concealed a short distance from the town but no clue to the robbers has yet been had Messrs PAXTON & McCREARY offer a reward of $50 for the detection of the thief, or thieves, and the recovery of the goods—Star

☞Good Stock—We understand that Jacob Y Busbey has disposed of his celebrated Horse (Richard Cobham,) to Mr John Q Senseney, near Uniontown, Md, for $1,000 Mr B has still a few more of the same sort left

☞Four men, Marion Cropp, Peter Corrie Henry Gambrill and John Cyphus, are to be executed at Baltimore on Friday next They made a request that the Sheriff would hang them in their own clothing, not in shrouds Their request will be acceded to

☞The Hon Henry S Geyer, formerly United States Senator from Missouri, died at St Louis on Sunday night

The Spring Elections

The election in New Hampshire, which took place on Tuesday last, has resulted in the success of the Republicans, who have elected their candidates for Governor and for Congress, and secured besides a large majority of the members of the State Legislature.

Three State elections are yet to take place this spring, viz In Connecticut on the 4th of April, in Rhode Island on the 6th of April, and in Virginia on the 26th of May In each of these States a Governor is to be chosen, and also members of the next Congress

☞The Compiler finds fault with the Sentinel for denouncing President Buchanan's special message to Congress, asking to be clothed with extraordinary powers, which would really give him the power to declare War without consulting Congress It quotes Senator Douglas's remarks in favor of the bill, and expresses great satisfaction therein

Mr Buchanan was sustained in this matter by Mr Douglas, Mr Benjamin of Louisiana, and Mr Clingman, of North Carolina—all of the fillibustering order, but he was not sustained by Mason or Hunter of Virginia Toombs, of Georgia, or even Davis of Mississippi—all of whom looked with suspicion upon the recommendations of the Message They were unwilling to consolidate all power in the hands of the President Some of them said so—all of them voted so. Toombs took occasion to say, in the discussion, that the President had but repeated, in his special message the recommendations contained in his annual message, that Congress knew its duties without this dictation, and that he presumed Congress would discharge its duties without regard to these gratuitous admonitions! The day after the Message was submitted to the Senate the whole subject received the go by—a majority of five having preferred to take up another subject In the House the recommendation was not noticed! Thus in both Houses, where the Democratic party hold large majorities the recommendations of the Message were treated with contempt No bill of the sort asked, passed either branch so that, as far as acts can commit that party, to any policy, the Democracy even are committed against Mr Buchanan's policy in this case When the Compiler censures us for disapproving that policy it censures the Democrats in Congress, who showed by their action that they were hostile to the whole project The Compiler will find itself, and tie its readers, outside of the Democratic pale if it should undertake to defend all of Mr Buchanan's doings

☞Hon AARON V BROWN Postmaster General of the U States died at his residence in Washington, on Tuesday morning last, of pneumonia Mr BROWN was in the sixty fourth year of his age and had been as conspicuous in public life as he was exemplary and estimable in his private one He was a native of Virginia, but was educated in the University of North Carolina, and then removing to Tennessee he there soon rose to eminence, and in turn filled the highest offices in the gift of his adopted State until finally he was called by President BUCHANAN to take a place in his Cabinet as Postmaster General

☞Hon Joseph Holt, for some time past Commissioner of Patents was nominated on Wednesday by the President, and forthwith unanimously confirmed by the Senate to the vacant office of Postmaster General admitted by all hands, and in all respects to be an excellent appointment

☞Alexander N Zevely, the efficient Chief Clerk to the third Assistant Postmaster General has been promoted by appointment of the President and Senate, to the office of Third Assistant made vacant by the death of the lamented Mr Marron

☞During a session in the U S Senate on the 28th ult, Mr Wilson, of Mass, after moving an amendment reducing the Postal Appropriation said he was cognizant of a case where Mr Rice, editor of the Pennsylvanian, had a contract for printing blanks for $40,000 which cost him just $5,000 the profits being divided, 50 per cent to the Washington Union, 5 per cent to Mr Appleton and 3 per cent to a paper published in the interest of a member of Congress This was followed up by Gen Cameron moving for the appointment of a committee to investigate the charge

☞On Tuesday night last, Mr John J Hershey near Hagerstown, had a flock of sheep, 20 in number, killed by dogs—One of the dogs was captured and killed, the others escaped Farmers having sheep had better keep a sharp look out

Starving for Bread—A journal published in Beloit, Wisconsin, in describing the destitution in that place, says that many families are starving for bread At a public meeting held there last month, it was stated that a poor man begged a liver at one of the markets a day or two before for his starving family He was followed to his house, and his wife and children were found devouring the raw liver, there being no fire or means of cooking it

☞The Rev A L Stone, pastor of the Park St Church Boston has been presented with an order on Baring Brothers of London for the sum of $2 000—the gift of the old and young members of his church, and also with a life insurance policy for $5 000 Mr Stone has sailed for a six months trip to Europe

The President's Last Interview with Gov Brown—The National Intelligencer, referring to the visit of President Buchanan to the death bed of the late Postmaster General Brown, on Monday night, at 11 o'clock, says

As Mr Buchanan was about to leave the room which he had quietly entered and from which he was noiselessly departing, Mrs Brown remarked to her husband that the President had desired to inquire into the condition of his health He quietly answered that he would be glad to see him, hearing which Mr Buchanan returned to his bedside "Mr Brown remarked Mr Buchanan I have endeavored faithfully to discharge all my public duties" To which the President replied that his efforts had been successful, and that the whole country would attest to his fidelity as a public officer and the success that had attended his administration of the department, and while commiserating his suffering condition expressed a hope for his restoration to health Mr Brown's entire consciousness that the time for hope had passed and with evident feeling having thanked the President for the uniform kindness which he had extended to him and his family, bade him adieu In a few hours he was no more

☞Private letters from Vera Cruz speak of the flight from that city, in consequence of the threatened descent of Miramon, as very general It comprises every class of people, men, women, and children were fleeing in every direction by sea as well as by land As an instance of the courtesy and friendly feeling that exists between the squadrons, our informant says that the United States ship Saratoga, Capt Turner, was on the point, a short time since, of returning to Pensacola for stores, and the English and French commanders cheerfully offered, in her absence, to protect American lives and property in the city But Capt Turner, hearing that Miramon had started his troops for Vera Cruz, determined to remain at his post Capt Turner, it appears, has obtained consent of the Juarez authorities to land his forces in the city of Vera Cruz, should it be besieged, and the safety of American residents require his action—Alexandria Gazette

Correspondence of the Adams Sentinel

"Something More about Fairfield"

MR EDITOR—A few weeks since an article appeared in the "SENTINEL," in which the writer described a visit to our place We are pleased that he was so favorably impressed with our social entertainments, and we thank him for the publicity he has given them Since he first spoke of us it has been the desire of the people of Fairfield and vicinity, that something more be said, and that by ourselves which if you will allow us a column in your paper we will endeavor to do

When reformations of whatever kind take place they do not remain long unrecorded but are speedily seized upon by the historian as fit subjects for the instruction of mankind Now we have in our midst a reformation which, if it does not benefit the world at large, will at least we trust benefit the people of Adams County Our citizens have commenced to take a deep and unusual interest in the study and practice of Music Most of the younger and many of the older class of persons have during the past winter been zealous pupils in this important branch of education—This is what we claim as our reformation and well may it be called such when we consider the singing as it was six months ago and as it is now

Six months ago our choirs which then did not consist of more than half a dozen persons, were unable to sing the most simple tunes correctly, now consist of about forty persons any and all of whom can sing the most difficult pieces understandingly Do you not call this a reformation? It must be considered such, when we reflect that it begins its work in the very heart of man Luther who the greatest reformer has said "Satan is a great enemy to music. It is a good antidote against temptation and evil thoughts The devil does not stay long where it is practiced" Again he has said "Singing is the best art and exercise, it has nothing to do with the world with law suits or quarrels Singers do not mix themselves with cares but are joyful, and banish and chase away their cares with singing" It is well known that most men deprecate a taste for music They regard such an accomplishment suitable only to those who have nothing else to do and whose lot it is to afford occasionally a little amusement for others who are less favored by ease and education As for them and their children they think music makes them neither better in business nor happier in society, differing somewhat in opinion from Luther who said that "music makes men more gentle and tender hearted, more modest and discreet" Many are prejudiced against music teachers because when young they went to singing school and "didn't learn nothing

This sad experience of parents is generally impelled to when the young purpose to attend a course of Musical instruction All that the good fathers and mothers remember of going to singing, are the sport they had, but have no recollection of what they were taught They used what is commonly and very properly called the "Patent system" because either the teacher knew not the 'round notes,' or it was believed that common people could not learn these

We are happy to say a spirit of prejudice on the part of the old people is in a great measure banished from our community This is our reformation The old as well as the youthful citizens encourage the cultivation of music and if we find any one who refuses to unite with us, we at once apply to him the language of Shakspeare,

> The man that hath no music in his soul
> Nor is not moved with concord of sweet sounds
> Is fit for treasons, stratagems and spoils
> Let no such man be trusted.

Our music in Church is indeed wonderfully improved so that bad singing no longer deadens all holy emotions which other exercises of worship awaken We now understand that the Psalmist when he says "sing unto him (God) a new song play skilfully with a loud noise," means that music in the sanctuary should be performed in the best manner possible

In our intercourse with each other we render many an hour pleasant by resorting to the note book Our little boys and girls while away much of their playtime in singing together Luther well knew what influence music has upon Children when he said "Music must of necessity be retained in the schools A school master must be able to sing—otherwise I will hear nothing of him" We hope that a knowledge of Music will soon be made a requisite qualification of every school teacher

It would however, be an ungrateful act to make known what has just been said without giving due praise to Prof J B HARRY a gentleman from the state of Ohio The revival of Music in our midst has altogether been effected through his agency—There have been other attempts at music among us, but they always failed in their object in some way or other Perhaps they were too soon discouraged or lacked patience or some other necessary qualification With Prof H there is no such a thing as discouragement, impatience or a fear of doing too much either with Classes or individuals Under his indefatigable labors a person cannot but learn music Even little girls and boys succeed to such a degree that it is no longer questionable, whether they can learn as well as adults—Prof H has been among us during the last six months, and well deserves the high esteem and confidence in which he is held by all who have formed an acquaintance with him

We need but say that efforts are being made by his numerous friends for employing him for another year It is the gentleman's design to form singing Classes for the same length of time in Gettysburg, Littlestown, Hanover, New Oxford, and Petersburg, (Y S) If the citizens of these places have such an opportunity presented to them to acquire a knowledge of vocal music we urge them to embrace it for we are convinced that no instructions in Music can be more progressive and thorough than those of Prof HARRY PUPIL

☞Two men, Eli Group and Jacob Hose, were found dead at different places in Washington county, Md, a few days ago The former supposed to have died from a fit, the latter was drowned

☞It is said that Mr Key, the late District Attorney at Washington, is not the first one of his family who has met with a violent death A brother, Francis Key, was killed about 25 years ago in a duel with Midshipman Sherburne, of Portsmouth, N. H.

Report of an Investigating Committee at Washington

The week preceding the adjournment of Congress, the Select Committee appointed to inquire into alleged abuses in the Naval Department, made a Report The majority of the Committee prepared a short Report whitewashing the officers implicated in most of the frauds, but admitting that the Navy Yards were badly managed. The minority of the Committee—John Sherman, of Ohio, and David Ritchie, of Pennsylvania—reported in detail all the facts elicited in the course of the investigation We make a condensation of their Report

They show that from 1820 to 1840 (a period of twenty years,) the total expenditure in the purchase, construction and improvement of Navy Yards, was $7,023,942 12 From October 1, 1842, to June 30, 1858, (a period of but sixteen years) the sum of $24,483,981 54 was spent for the same purposes Besides this, there was expended from 1841 to Jan, 1859 for the increase, repair, and equipment, armament fuel for steamers, and purchase of hemp for the Navy, the sum of $41,804 159 15 This does not include the special expenditures for the construction of new vessels The total expenditures in this Department during 1858, were

Yards and docks,	$3 157 032 57
Equipment and repair	3,129 427 63
	$6 286 460 20

In 1844 these expenditures were

Yards and docks	$306 653 35
Equipment and repair,	1 398,435 98
	$1,705,088 33

Within the last fifteen years these expenditures have nearly quadrupled

The Committee next proceed to state the facts relative to the

COAL AGENCY

In May, 1855, applicants for this post met at Washington, and compromised—It was agreed that Dr C H Hunter, of Reading, Pa, should be appointed and that the emoluments of the office should be divided between him, J I Smith (in the omnibus business in Philadelphia,) and J Lawrence Getz, Editor of the Reading Gazette The President, who made the appointment, was informed of the arrangement! J Glancey Jones was active in making it Subsequently Getz withdrew from the arrangement, because he said it was distasteful to him Hunter is a practicing physician, knows nothing of the coal, did not purchase a ton, but turned the whole matter over to Tyler, Stone & Co, Philadelphia, one of the members of which firm is C Nichols Beach, a nephew (by marriage) of the Secretary of the Navy, Hon Isaac Toucey. The coal was delivered in Philadelphia, and never was inspected by Hunter, or Smith, or other Government officer The price given was $3 85 per ton Many responsible witnesses testified that the market value of the Coal delivered to Government was not $3 50 per ton, and that several respectable dealers would have furnished it at the latter price, or less, and then have made a profit The coal purchased the first six months Hunter was in office, was over 40,000 tons (much for the Paraguay Expedition) and cost over $140 000 on which his percentage was $7,452 92 or at the rate of $14 905 84 This was equally divided between him and Smith, but neither performed any duty The President was furnished with a copy of testimony but took no notice of it The only defence of the Secretary of the Navy, was, that the same system prevailed under the last Administration (Pierce's) and that he did not know that the Coal agent was inattentive!

The next point is the

LIVE OAK CONTRACTS

The law requires the Live oak timber to be bought of the lowest bidder but it is not kept on hand in large quantities by dealers Hence it is usual to allow Contractors from one to two years to furnish a needed supply When delivered, it is stored away and used as required Prior to 1844, W C H Swift, of New Bedford, Mass, was a live oak contractor. In 1854, he entered into a contract with George Plitt of Philadelphia, a prominent Democrat—Plitt agreeing to aid Swift in procuring contracts, and Swift to give him ten per cent of the gross amount of the contracts Plitt knew the Chiefs of the Departments, introduced Swift, and played into his hands on all occasions During the campaign of 1856, Plitt introduced Swift to Mr Buchanan, and tried to place him in a good position with the latter—Plitt was Treasurer of the Democratic State Central Committee in 1856 Swift gave him $10,000 of his own money, and $6 000 collected from friends, to aid in carrying on the canvass. After Buchanan was inaugurated, Plitt introduced Swift to Toucey, Secretary of the Navy, spoke of his liberal contributions during the Campaign, and valuable services otherwise rendered During 1857, an outstanding contract with Mr Blanchard was annulled, and given to Swift he obtained a contract to furnish 150,000 feet of live oak, to be delivered at three Navy yards The amount of these contracts was $232,940 In order to make the latter of these contracts certain, and prevent competition, the Secretary of the Navy required the delivery of the Live oak, part in September of that year, and the balance by February of the next year Swift and Bigler were the only parties who had Live oak on hand in sufficient quantities to comply with these terms. They arranged, and were not in each others way, and thus secured the contract for themselves very much at their own price All the details of this transaction are stated by the Committee, but they would occupy too much space Last October, Swift repudiated his agreement with Plitt, and Plitt consulted the President He showed the President the contract, and asked him whether there could be any objection to his prosecuting Swift in Court for the claim The President looked at the agreement, and said he could not see any objection to it He said he had, of course, no advice to give, and told him he might do as he pleased about it! To this Plitt testified, upon oath Imagine the President of the United States tolerating such a contract, after being informed of it Plitt agreed to sell his influence with the Government to obtain contracts, which otherwise could not be procured, and the President acquiesced in the corrupt bargain!

BROOKLYN NAVY YARD

The patronage in this Yard was divided among the Democratic members of Congress from New York City Thus, it was agreed, that the Constructive Engineer, Master plumber, and Block maker, represented Mr Sickles the Spar-Maker, Blacksmith, and Timber inspector, Mr Maclay; and so on That is, that each of these members had the control of all the appointments under these master workmen Mr. Haskin had his man, but he was removed when Haskin went against Lecompton—Horace F Clark's man resigned when Clark went against Lecompton, because he did not wish to be removed These appointments were always made from politicians and those were appointed who had no fitness, and could not procure work in private establishments The result was, incompetent and unworthy men throng the Yards When the Commanders of the Yards would not carry out all the plans of the politicians for stocking the yards, they were detached and ordered to Washington!

A statement is given of the number of persons employed at the various Yards, every half month of the year past In Brooklyn, the number in December 1857, was 1479, in May 1858, 1379, November 1st, 1858, 2488—or an increase of 1109 men, made just before the New York election which took place November 2—In Philadelphia, the number employed in December, 1857, was 643, May 1, 1858, 1064, November 1, 1541 During the month of October, 1858 it ranged from 1685 to 1722—an increase of over SIX HUNDRED in four months The Pennsylvania election was held October 12—Thus these Yards were evidently packed, in order to control the election, as was alleged at the time The interests of the people are disregarded, that the Party may succeed That is the animating motive at Washington—to keep power!

We shall give more next week

Carroll County, Md

Mr George R Rhodes, Post master at Carrollton, 3 miles below Westminster, committed suicide on Tuesday morning last by shooting himself in the head with a heavy charged pistol He has been laboring under a species of hypochondria for some time

Another melancholy event occurred in the same county a few days ago Mrs. Babylon, wife of John Babylon, of Uniontown who has been suffering under a depression of mind for some time being left by her attendants for a few moments, proceeded to the garret, and jumped from the window, causing her death.

On Monday night Feb 28, at an oyster supper at Westminster, a general fight ensued, and a young man named James Miller, was so dreadfully cut as to cause his death, after a few days of lingering agony Several arrests have been made; but there appears, from the report of the Coroner's jury, that no distinct evidence has been produced against any individual

☞Is it Possible?—A late mail from Santa Fe, brings a copy of stringent laws, passed by the Legislature of New Mexico, to protect property in slaves, and totally prohibiting emancipation in that Territory This is the "squatter sovereignty" so eloquently advocated by Mr Douglas, who has been so kindly and soothingly taken under the wing of our friend of the Compiler, since Mr D has sent in his adhesion again to the Democracy, and is willing to submit his claims to the Presidency, to the Charleston Convention

☞The municipal election, last week, in Chicago, passed off very quietly The total vote cast was about 25,000 The entire Republican ticket was elected by an average majority of 4,000 The Council Stands—Republicans, 14, Democrats, 6

☞The remains of the Rev Dr Rauch, formerly President of Marshall College, were removed from Mercersburg a few days ago, and re interred at Lancaster, under the directions of Rev Dr Gerhart Although he had been buried for eighteen years, the coffin was still in a perfect state of preservation

☞David Clagett, Esq, for over fifty years extensively engaged in farming and milling in Washington county, Md., died on Saturday last in his 79th year—Jacob Dellinger, Esq, another old citizen of the same county, died last week from injuries received by a fall a few days previous.

Trial of the Rev. Dr. Downey.

A Queer Jury.—It is now going on two years since the Rev. Dr. Downey, a Catholic priest of Staunton, Va., was thrown into prison on the charge of having killed a man named William Mullins, in Staunton. This Mullins was a single man, and, according to report, rather addicted to fooling with simple-minded Irish girls, by promises of marriage, with very little regard for the performance of the same. Mullins seduced, under such a promise, a young girl in the employ of Dr. Downey. Her character previously stood untarnished. Her employer wanted that the wronged girl should have justice done to her, and in his efforts to make Mullins keep his promise and marry her, a dispute or scuffle arose between them, and Mullins got shot, as alleged, by the priest Downey. On this charge the accused has stood three trials, and is now incarcerated to stand his fourth trial, about May next, in Albemarle county. The last jury, who failed to agree on his case, stood in the following remarkable manner: Three were for instant acquittal of the prisoner; three were for his imprisonment in jail for one year, but in order to agree they would prefer going for his acquittal. The six who opposed a verdict of 'not guilty,' stood as follows: One for five years in the Penitentiary, or hanging; one for eight years in the Penitentiary; one for eighteen years; two for fifteen years, and one for two years. It is said that seven men of this jury had been twice married, and had eighty children. About Staunton, the more the matter and evidence in this remarkable trial are examined and discussed, the more the popular opinion and sympathy work in favor of Dr. Downey, and the opinion is fast spreading to the effect that this prosecution against him is being carried too far.

Daring Act of a Railroad Engineer.—The Lafayette Daily Courier, of the 24th, relates the following:

Night before last, a deaf and dumb man, named Lane, met with a thrilling adventure, and narrowly escaped the loss of his life, on the New Albany and Salem Road, a short distance below Linden. He was walking on the track as the passenger train came along, and the engineer observing that he paid no heed to the warning whistle of the locomotive, shut down the brakes, but finding it would be impossible to check the speed of the train before striking him, ran forward, and bracing himself upon the cow-catcher, reached out his strong arm just in time to save him. The imminent danger of the brave engineer was greatly augmented by the fact that the deaf and dumb man had an axe upon his shoulder, from which he might have received serious injury. Lane was a little astonished at the unceremonious manner in which he had been picked up, and without comprehending his narrow escape, struggled in the arms of his deliverer, to the great danger of both. The train, however, soon came to a halt, and the poor fellow, by signs and gestures, more eloquent than words, testified his gratitude for the deliverance. He was the same man who was knocked into a ditch by a passing train last summer, at or near the same spot, where his brother, also deaf and dumb, was run over and horribly mangled, the year before.

ANOTHER SICKLES TRAGEDY.—The Seducer Shot.—The Rochester (N. Y.) Advertiser of Friday has the following:

At Batavia, this morning, David Curry shot John Foster. His wife had been keeping house for Foster some time, and Curry requested her to come home. She refused. They quarreled last night. Foster and two other men beat Curry badly.—Foster was shot just about the abdomen, the ball passing through his body and lodging in a fence post. Foster died in a few hours afterwards. Foster was passing on the opposite side of the street from Curry's house, and on his way to his work.—He was about 30 years of age, and a laborer. Curry was immediately arrested and committed to jail. There is considerable excitement in Batavia in regard to it.

Juvenile Folly.—It will hardly be believed, but it is nevertheless true, that an elopement took place a few days ago at Albany, between a couple of children, aged respectively fourteen and fifteen years! The young Romeo actually provided himself with a package of arsenic, to commit suicide in case of discovery, but fortunately the father of the young gentleman overtook him at Utica, got possession of the poison, had the girl locked up, and gave the boy a good cowhiding.—Journal.

SINGULAR AFFAIR—Whose Baby?—The Buffalo Courier states that when the train on the Lake Shore Railroad, which left Erie at 4 45 on Thursday afternoon, arrived at Westfield, a telegraphic despatch was received by the conductor, inquiring whether the mother of a new-born infant was on the cars, and stating that a babe had been found on the track about two miles this side of Erie. The child could not have been an hour old, and was alive. It had evidently been dropped from the saloon on the track. The conductor and others went through the cars to find the mother. They found a girl, apparently not more than sixteen years old, who was known to have been in the saloon at the time the train left Erie, and was evidently unwell. She came on the cars at Erie, and had a ticket for Jersey City, for which place her baggage was checked. There was not sufficient evidence, however, to arrest her, and she left the cars at Dunkirk, and took the New York and Erie train for the place of her destination. At last accounts the child was alive and doing "as well as could be expected." It is quite probable that the history of this mysterious affair will come to light.

Horrible Murder and Suicide.—At Monticello, Indiana, a horrible murder and suicide was committed on the 26th ult.—Arthur Burns, an old farmer, who had been divorced from his wife, but was again married to the same woman after a separation of several years, deliberately loaded his gun with heavy slugs, and shot her through the head as she sat knitting before the fire. Reloading the gun, he placed the muzzle to his mouth, and pulling the trigger with his toe blew his brains out.—He was instantly killed. The unfortunate woman, though shot through the brain, lingered for a whole day, when she died in great agony.

The Kentucky Tragedy.

A Coat-of-Mail. It appears that Lowe, one of the victims of the tragedy at Hawesville, Ky., wore a steel shirt or coat-of-mail, which fitted tight to his whole body. The Louisville Journal says:

Our informant, who was a spectator of the scene, says that at least between seventy five and a hundred guns and pistols were fired at Lowe, and that there were thirty-two bullet and buck shot holes through all portions of his coat, but that not a solitary ball or shot entered his body or even drew a drop of blood. Heavily-loaded guns were fired at him at a distance of not more than six feet, and he was repeatedly knocked down and whirled around by the leaden missiles, yet no wounds except contusions were inflicted. The ball which struck his thigh made a very severe bruise but did not enter the skin. Our informant saw a strong man strike him four times with a bowie-knife, but the point of the weapon turned without penetrating.

Lowe, it will be remembered, was subsequently murdered in jail by two men who gained forcible admission. It is alleged that he had declared his determination to take their lives when he got out.—What is singular, the grand jury have declared that the two men were justified in what they did on the ground of self preservation.

☞A large number of street beggars were arrested in New York last week, and among them a young girl, who acknowledged that she constantly supplied a family of six persons, two of whom were boarders.

A Sadly Disappointed Bridegroom.—The Dayton (Ohio) Journal tells a story of a young man from Darke county, engaged to marry a girl of that city, had given her $50 to buy her wedding clothes, and was to have been married on Sunday evening. But when the time came and everything was ready, the girl did not appear—she had run off with some fellow she liked better.

WHAT THE PRESS SAYS.

FAMILY MEDICINES

ARE the only preparations of the kind placed before the public under the name of ECLECTIC They are called Eclectic because they are carefully and scientifically selected—the BEST from all the GOOD—and approved by the most scientific men in the United States They do not contain any Mercury Antimony or Opium or anything that would be deleterious to the most delicate constitution

All who understand the curing of disease know that medicines only assist nature, and unless they act and harmonize with nature disease cannot be cured Want of a proper knowledge of these facts causes many of our fellow citizens to go down to an untimely grave

I can therefore recommend this preparation with the utmost confidence and am fully persuaded from past experience at the bed side of the sick, that it will give very general if not universal satisfaction Yet at the same time I do not pretend to say that it is a CURE ALL or that it is in all cases and circumstances infallible For when a remedy is set forth as 'Cure All' 'Infallible,' &c the conclusion with me is irresistible, that the proprietor himself believes his remedy to be a humbug and designed from the start to deceive the public

PROF O J WOOD—Dear S Some time last summer we were induced to use some of your Hair Restorative and its effect were so wonderful, we feel it our duty to you and the afflicted to report it

Our little son's head for some time had been perfectly covered with sores and some called it scald head The hair almost entirely came off in consequence when a friend seeing his sufferings, advised us to use your Restorative we did so with little hope of success but to our surprise and that of all our friends a very few applications removed the disease entirely and a new and luxuriant crop of hair soon started out and we can now say that our boy has as healthy a scalp and as luxuriant a crop of hair as any other child We can therefore and do hereby recommend your Restorative as a perfect remedy for all diseases of the scalp and hair We are yours respectfully

GEORGE W HIGGINBOTHAN
SARAH A HIGGINBOTHAN

PROF O J WOOD—Dear Sir I have used two bottles of Prof Wood's Hair Restorative and can truly say it is the greatest discovery of the age for restoring and changing the Hair Before using it I was a man of seventy My Hair has now attained its original color You can recommend it to the world without the least fear as my case was one of the worst kind Yours Respectfully

LINDSEY'S IMPROVED

BLOOD SEARCHER,

The only Acknowledged Remedial Agent for Impurity of the Blood that does its work thoroughly, effectually, and without fail!

THIS great PURIFIER now before the public but a few years has already won a name and reputation unexampled in the history of any medicine ever invented The ingredients composing it are simple yet in combination all powerful in driving disease from the human system It cures Scrofula Cutaneous Diseases, Pimples on the Face Old and Stubborn Ulcers Tetter affections, Dyspepsia Jaundice Mercurial Diseases Liver Complaint Low Spirits Cancerous formations Erysipelas Boils Sore Eyes Scald Head Rheumatic Disorders Costiveness Salt Rheum General Debility Loss of Appetite Foul Stomach Female Complaints and all Diseases having their origin in an impure state of the Blood

Every Agent who has this medicine for sale has circulars on hand containing certificates from persons who have been cured by its use Many of them are desperate cases and commend themselves to the attention of those afflicted with any of the above diseases The following certificate alone is selected as carrying with it the most indubitable evidence of the virtues of this wonderful medicine

Sworn statement of David McCreary of Napier Township Bedford county

In April 1856 as near as I can remember a small pimple made its appearance on my upper lip which soon became enlarged and sore I used poultices of sorrel, and a wash of blue vitriol without effect Finding the sore extending I called on Dr Ely of Schellsburg who pronounced it CANCER and prescribed a wash of sugar of lead and bread poultices Finding these remedies of no avail I called upon Dr Shaffer of Davidsville Somerset county who also pronounced the disease Cancer and gave me internal and external remedies—the latter consisting principally of caustic, but all to no purpose as the disease continued spreading toward the nose I next used a preparation of arsenic in the form of salve This for a time checked the disease but the inflammation soon increased I next called upon Dr Statler of St Clairsville Bedford county who also pronounced the disease Cancer and applied a salve said to be a never failing remedy but it had no effect whatever in checking the spread of the sore In December of the same year the disease had eaten away a greater part of my upper lip and had attacked the nose when I went to Cincinnati where I consulted Prof R S Newton of the Eclectic Medical College He pronounced the disease a cutaneous Cancer superinduced by an inordinate use of mercury He applied mild zinc ointment and gave me internal remedies My face healed up but the inflammation was not thoroughly removed In February 1857 he pronounced me cured and I left for home In April the disease again returned and so violent was the pain that I could not rest at night Late in May I returned to Cincinnati and again placed myself under the charge of Dr Newton with whom I remained until September during which time he used every known remedy and partly succeeded in checking the disease but when I returned home there were still three discharging ulcers upon my face I continued using Newton's preparations and also medicine that I got from Dr Ely but the Cancer continued growing until it had EAT OFF THE LEFT SIDE OF MY NOSE THE GREATER PORTION OF MY LEFT CHEEK AND HAD ATTACKED MY LEFT EYE I had given up all hope of ever being cured since Dr Ely said he could only give relief but that a cure was impossible In March 1858 I bought a bottle of 'Blood Searcher' but I must confess that I had no faith in it I was very weak when I commenced taking it, but I found that I gained strength day by day and also that the ulcers commenced drying up I continued and when the third bottle was taken my face was healed as if by a miracle I used a fourth bottle and I have been healthier since than I have been for the last seven years Although my face is sadly disfigured I am still grateful to a benign Providence who has spared my life and which has been done through the instrumentality of LINDSEY'S BLOOD SEARCHER

INVIGORATOR!

PREPARED BY DR SANFORD,

Compounded entirely from GUMS,

IS ONE OF THE BEST PURGATIVE AND LIVER MEDICINES now before the public, that acts as a Cathartic easier, milder, and more effectual than any other medicine known It is not only a Cathartic, but a Liver remedy acting first on the Liver to eject its morbid matter then on the stomach and bowels to carry off that matter, that accomplishing two purposes effectually, without any of the painful feelings experienced in the operations of most Cathartics It strengthens the system at the same time that it purges it, and when taken daily in moderate doses, will strengthen and build it up with unusual rapidity

The Liver is one of the principal regulators of the human body, and when it performs its functions well the powers of the system are fully developed The stomach is almost entirely dependent on the healthy action of the Liver for the proper performance of its functions when the out system suffers in consequence of one organ—the Liver—having ceased to do its duty For the diseases of that organ, one of the proprietors has made it his study, in a practice of more than twenty years, to find some remedy wherewith to counteract the many derangements to which it is liable

To prove that this remedy is at last found any person troubled with Liver Complaint, in any of its forms, has but to try a bottle, and conviction is certain

These Gums remove all morbid or bad matter from the system, supplying in their place a healthy flow of bile, invigorating the stomach causing food to digest well, purifying the blood, giving tone and health to the whole machinery removing the cause of the disease—effecting a radical cure

Bilious attacks are cured and what is better, prevented, by the occasional use of the Liver Invigorator

One dose after eating is sufficient to relieve the stomach and prevent the food from rising and souring

Only one dose taken before retiring prevents nightmare

Only one dose taken at night, loosens the bowels gently, and cures Costiveness

One dose taken after each meal will cure dyspepsia

☞One dose of two tea spoonsful will relieve Sick Headache

One bottle taken for female obstruction removes the cause of the disease, and makes a perfect cure

Only one dose immediately relieves Cholic while one dose often repeated is a sure cure for Cholera Morbus and a preventive of Cholera

☞Only one bottle is needed to throw out of the system the effects of medicine after a long sickness

☞One bottle taken for Jaundice removes all sallowness or unnatural color from the skin

One dose taken a short time before eating gives vigor to the appetite, and makes food digest well

One dose often repeated cures Chronic Diarrhoea in its worst forms while Summer and Bowel complaints yield almost to the first dose.

One or two doses cures attacks caused by Worms in Children there is no surer, safer, or speedier remedy in the world, as it never fails

☞A few bottles cures Dropsy, by exciting the absorbents

We take pleasure in recommending this medicine as a preventive for Fever and Ague, Chill Fever, and all Fevers of a Bilious Type It operates with certainty, and thousands are willing to testify to its wonderful virtues

All who use it are giving their unanimous testimony in its favor

☞Mix Water in the mouth with the Invigorator and swallow both together

The Liver Invigorator

IS A SCIENTIFIC MEDICAL DISCOVERY, and is daily working cures, almost too great to believe It cures as if by magic, even the first dose giving benefit, and seldom more than one bottle is required to cure any kind of Liver Complaint, from the worst Jaundice or Dyspepsia to a common Headache, all of which are the result of a Diseased Liver.

Ayer's Sarsaparilla

A compound remedy, in which we have labored to produce the most effectual alterative that can be made It is a concentrated extract of Para Sarsaparilla, so combined with other substances of still greater alterative power as to afford an effective antidote for the diseases Sarsaparilla is reputed to cure It is believed that such a remedy is wanted by those who suffer from Strumous complaints, and that one which will accomplish their cure must prove of immense service to this large class of our afflicted fellow-citizens. How completely this compound will do it has been proven by experiment on many of the worst cases to be found of the following complaints —

SCROFULA AND SCROFULOUS COMPLAINTS, ERUPTIONS AND ERUPTIVE DISEASES, ULCERS, PIMPLES, BLOTCHES, TUMORS, SALT RHEUM, SCALD HEAD, SYPHILIS AND SYPHILITIC AFFECTIONS, MERCURIAL DISEASE, DROPSY, NEURALGIA OR TIC DOULOUREUX, DEBILITY, DYSPEPSIA AND INDIGESTION, ERYSIPELAS, ROSE OR ST ANTHONY'S FIRE and indeed the whole class of complaints arising from IMPURITY OF THE BLOOD

This compound will be found a great promoter of health, when taken in the spring, to expel the foul humors which fester in the blood at that season of the year By the timely expulsion of them many rankling disorders are nipped in the bud Multitudes can, by the aid of this remedy spare themselves from the endurance of foul eruptions and ulcerous sores through which the system will strive to rid itself of corruption if not assisted to do this through the natural channels of the body by an alterative medicine Cleanse out the vitiated blood whenever you find its impurities bursting through the skin in pimples eruptions, or sores cleanse it when you find it is obstructed and sluggish in the veins, cleanse it whenever it is foul, and your feelings will tell you when Even where no particular disorder is felt people enjoy better health, and live longer, for cleansing the blood. Keep the blood healthy and all is well, but with this pabulum of life disordered there can be no lasting health Sooner or later something must go wrong, and the great machinery of life is disordered or overthrown.

Sarsaparilla has, and deserves much, the reputation of accomplishing these ends But the world has been egregiously deceived by preparations of it, partly because the drug alone has not all the virtue that is claimed for it but more because many preparations, pretending to be concentrated extracts of it, contain but little of the virtue of Sarsaparilla, or any thing else

During late years the public have been misled by large bottles pretending to give a quart of Extract of Sarsaparilla for one dollar Most of these have been frauds upon the sick for they not only contain little, if any, Sarsaparilla but often no curative properties whatever. Hence bitter and painful disappointment has followed the use of the various extracts of Sarsaparilla which flood the market until the name itself is justly despised, and has become synonymous with imposition and cheat Still we call this compound Sarsaparilla, and intend to supply such a remedy as shall rescue the name from the load of obloquy which rests upon it And we think we have ground for believing it has virtues which are irresistible by the ordinary run of the diseases it is intended to cure In order to secure their complete eradication from the system, the remedy should be judiciously taken according to directions on the bottle

HOWARD ASSOCIATION,

PHILADELPHIA

A Benevolent Institution established by special Endowment for the Relief of the Sick and Distressed, afflicted with Virulent and Epidemic Diseases

THE HOWARD ASSOCIATION, in view of the awful destruction of human life, caused by Sexual diseases, and the deception practiced upon the unfortunate victims of such diseases by Quacks, several years ago directed their Consulting Surgeon, as a CHARITABLE ACT worthy of their name, to open a Dispensary for the treatment of this class of diseases in all their forms, and to give Medical Advice Gratis to all who apply by letter, with a description of their condition, (age, occupation habits of life, &c), and in cases of extreme poverty to FURNISH MEDICINES FREE OF CHARGE. It is needless to add that the Association commands the highest Medical skill of the age, and will furnish the most approved modern treatment

The Directors of the Association, in their Annual Report upon the treatment of Sexual Diseases, for the year ending January 1st, 1858, express the highest satisfaction with the success which has attended the labors of the Consulting Surgeon in the cure of Spermatorrhoea, Seminal Weakness, Impotence, Gonorrhoea, Gleet, Syphilis, the vice of Onanism or Self abuse, &c, and order a continuance of the same plan for the ensuing year

The Directors, on a review of the past, feel assured that their labors in this sphere of benevolent effort have been of great benefit to the afflicted, especially to the young, and they have resolved to devote themselves, with renewed zeal, to this very important and much despised cause

An admirable Report on Spermatorrhoea, or Seminal Weakness, the vice of Onanism Masturbation, or Self abuse, and other diseases of the sexual organs, by the Consulting Surgeon, will be sent by mail (in a sealed envelope) FREE OF CHARGE, on receipt of two Stamps for postage Other Reports and Tracts on the nature and treatment of sexual diseases, diet, &c., are constantly being published for gratuitous distribution and will be sent to the afflicted Some of the new remedies and methods of treatment discovered during the last year, are of great value

Address, for Report or treatment, Dr. J. Skillon Houghton, Acting Surgeon, Howard Association, No. 2 South Ninth Street, Philadelphia, Pa By order of the Directors
